

THE ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT OF THE SITUATION ON THE SEAPORTS MANAGEMENT

Capt. Ahmed Dawood

Lecturer in Arab Academy for Science & Technology and Maritime Transportation, Alexandria, Egypt

ABSTRACT

Safety requirements and environmental compatibility with the study of the environmental effects are considered of the grounds and important tools for sound environmental management so as to ensure the ports run by systems and agreed environmental standards in terms of operating and marketing considerations.

The paper aims to show the effect of the environmental situation on the seaports to develop a proposal for the ongoing environmental monitoring marine ports and study the environmental situation of the ports to help making good decisions and follow the appropriate action to protect the environment and conserve natural resources, the embodiment of the concept of (environmental conservation for sustainable development).