

Abstract

Mohamed A Omar

On the numerical analysis of stochastic partial differential equations

A system of stochastic differential equations will be solved numerically using a version of Runge-Kutta method for solving ordinary stochastic differential equations based on results found in [1] , This solution is a first step towards solving stochastic partial differential equations using an idea that was introduced in [2]. Implementation and investigation is given on some applications.